Senior Class History

We, the Seniors of '27 who are about to depart from dear old C. H. S. must think back over the joys and sorrows which has too quickly sped during the four years we spent within its protecting walls.

On a glorious day in September a noisy bunch of Freshmen, eighty-five in number, entered High School. Indeed we were a "Comedy of Errors," and were teased and taunted by the stone hearted upper-classmen. During this year Fred Benson was our president, "Fritz," as he was popularly called. We ranked high in athletics, giving five boys to the Football squad and three to the Basketball squad. We were also represented in the Music department and Dramatic department. On Hobo Day the first and third prizes were awarded to two members of our class. Then at Christmas time we gathered about the Christmas tree where Santa Claus came bringing presents and good cheer. Thus the Freshmen year ended with visions of the things to learn and good times to come during the ensuing year.

Next in order we were Sophomores with Harvey as our president and, if you'll believe it, he was a wise old chief who "ruled with an iron hand." Our class had now decreased to sixty-five members. This year, much to our delight, we won the Nakenuk Contest and went to see Caney "wallop" Oswego.

Another year came and we were on the next round of the ladder. During this year Eli Stalard better known as "Eli" was our president. At this time the Juniors had to entertain the student body with a chapel program and what a great thing we did. When the curtain was raised, movie actresses from Hollywood and other cities entertained. This chapel was said to be the hit of the season. Then came the most terrible deed this class ever done. Each Senior was led to a ghost's den and entertained for the evening. Another event which happened in this successful year was the Circus and box supper which really showed how much pep and enthusiasm there was in the class. On April the sixteenth the Juniors, Seniors, faculty and school board met in the High School gymnasium where a beautiful banquet was spread. And was it not this evening that the Junior president so timely laid a ring of flowers and laid upon the finger of the Senior President? The class felt that they would enjoy a picnic together so food of all kinds was prepared and on tracks we set out for Havana Lake. The main feature of the evening was a tin cup offered as a prize for the best "fish" story told. Then the class journeyed back to town in the rain. Thus the Jolly Juniors bid farewell to old Caney High School for the year (1925-26) with a membership of fifty-one.

In September we assembled again for the purpose of increasing our knowledge. "Eli" is our president again and we have among us many new members. The Juniors entertained us with a "Specky" Halloween party which the Seniors greatly enjoyed. Our class is again represented on the Football and Basketball teams. The chapel which was an impersonation of the teachers, was a great success.

As the school year is nearing its close perhaps if this laconic history has not given a very vivid account of the years of time well spent, it has at least given to its readers an inkling as to the working order of the class.

Now as we leave this school forever we are confident that we have a better future before us because of the knowledge and experience we have obtained from our Alma Mater and each student will dream of the sweet and peaceful times which happened during the years 1924-'25-'26-'27. "Weeping may endure for a night but joy cometh in the morning."

Senior Class Prophecy

August 25, 1926.

Dear Class President of '27:

No doubt you will think it strange to hear from me, but I have had such an unusual and interesting time on my way here to enroll in Columbia University I thought you would like to hear about it.

One of our old friends, Mary Lambdin, accompanied me to Kansas City where she was married. I went with her to the matrimonial agency and whom should be the agent but Ruth Smith. We all expected Ruth to be an old maid school teacher but she said she was happily married to our dear teacher Carl Swenson. Mary asked where she could find a good preacher and Ruth said, "I suppose you remember Everett Conklin? He is a Holiness preacher," so Mary was united in Holy matrimony.

Mary and her husband went shopping with me; while we were in the "Emery Bird Thayer" store, I was waiting for my change, I noticed the lady next to me buying a very pretty dress. I asked the clerk the price and when she looked up it was Clew Truskett. She had been working there for three years. The floor-walker was Verle Jones. He had gone to Kansas City to enter as an orderly but had changed his mind. After a long visit and congratulations to Mary I went to the Beauty Parlor for a shampoo and marcel. When I entered the barber shop I saw two dark complexioned ladies. One was tall and the other medium size. They both watched me very closely and when I got into the barber chair I looked at the ladies and then let out one hilarious yell. "Why, it's Mary Jane Nolan!" Then we all recognized each other and the other barber was Bethel Moyer. Now maybe you think we didn't have a good time. The barber shoppe and beauty parlor were combined and Mary Jane said for me to wait just a minute. She went into the beauty parlor and when she came back she had Marion Prall with her. She was the beauty operator. I hardly knew who she was with her curls done up. And Ellis, she doesn't even know where "Toad" is. Mary Jane told me there was a traveling troupe in town from Kansas University Lyceum course and asked me to go with them. I was delighted to go because you know some of the kids of '27 went to K. U. So, Mary Jane, Bethel and I went to the show. When they handed us a program it was an all Senior '27 cast. Say, I'll bet the owner of the theatre felt like putting us out, when we read this. The cast was: The Ardent Lover—Glen Barrett; The Rival—Charlie Burns; The Pretty Girl—Inez Hendrickson; The Mother—Coleen Rardon, and the Father—Jack Pocock.

All played their parts splendidly. As soon as the play was over we went up to congratulate them. After a long visit, I went to the hotel for the night.

The next morning I left on the 10:47 for Chicago. I had to change trains at a small town named "Woodsburg." I had an hour between trains so I went to a restaurant. While I was waiting for my order a tall slender man entered. There were several men following him calling him "Governor." I could hear very little of their conversation but from what I did hear I knew the tall man was governor and founder of "Woodsburg" and he was laying plans for some streets. By this time I had my order and the waitress who brought it was none other than Opal Baker. She is still the sweet, charming girl working to go to Chicago to Art School. I asked her who the governor was and guess who it was! Your old friend "Skeeter" Woods. I called him to my table and made myself known. He asked all about you and your business, and I told him that Mr. Jesso couldn't get along with it you. He asked if you were married and when I told him he was very glad because he said he knew that Bessie Hamilton would make a good wife. Homer said he had a surprise for me and in about five minutes two men walked in and I readily recognized John Kamps and George Glatfelder. John works in the ditch and George is street manager. Since my time was limited I could not visit as long as I wanted to, it was almost time for my train so I went to my station.

I had safely boarded the train and enjoyed the works of nature when my eyes glanced upon a stately looking conductor. He stopped by my seat and said, "Well, well, how is Caney?" I looked up half dazed that a conductor would stop and talk to me. I had to ask him who he was. He laughed and said, "Why I am 'Wamp' Strickland." Surprised, at first, he most effectively mess up the name and couldn't describe my emotion. He told me that the brakeman on the train was George Kirby. Naturally I had to go and visit with Kirby awhile. He was certainly overjoyed to see me as Vaughn was the only Senior '27 he had seen since '29.

I was off the train for dinner next day and stopped at "Marshall's Cafe." You remember Johnny Marshall's folks used to run a restaurant at home so I felt sure that Johnny and Celia West owned this one. When I went in I was tickled to death to see Celia seated behind the cash register. After a long visit the train bell sounded giving me the signal to break up the gossip society and I told my dear friend Celia goodby.

My next stop was Chicago. I went directly to a hotel to get my room. The next morning when I went downstairs for my breakfast I noticed a man in the telephone booth who looked familiar. When he came out and leaned over for his traveling bags, I remembered that "Bumo" Baker had once sprained his knee playing football for C. H. S. and from the way this man leaned over I knew it was he. We went to breakfast and Harold told me all about himself. He was traveling salesman for Swift Premium Company and I was on my way home. His wife was formerly Editha Peck. They had two children and were getting along nicely. Harold also told me that Lucille Allen and Leon Wetmore were married; they lived next door to them. Leon was a soda squirt. He makes ten dollars a week so you can figure for yourself how they manage.

When I was walking down the street a few hours later I met a well dressed young lady with a pedicab in her hand. I heard a lady remark, "Mis. Rarrington" to her and it made me wonder if it could be Treva. You know that I am not bashful so I went up to her and she knew me immediately. She owns an art shop there and two other companies on Chestnut, Palmer and Walnut Fields. I went with her to her shop to see them and Waneta told me that she was engaged to Zack Chamberlain. I didn't have to ask her what he was doing for I heard some music below the window. When I looked out there was Zack with a hand-organ and monkey serenading his love. He told me that they expected to be married in two hours and asked me to attend the wedding. I thought this would be lots of fun so Christine and I were flower girls. Say weren't we pretty walking down the church aisle! After it was over we went to the Ambassador Hotel for lunch. When we were invited to dance by Zack we danced and the page was Louis Fields. We couldn't talk to him long because the "Boss" was very strict. He said his wife, Mary Henderson was head matron on the second floor. We went up to see her. I then went to my room for the night. The next morning Treva took me to the Mercy Hospital. She said that she had a surprise for me. When we went to the office to ask if we might visit, the stenographer asked if I still talked as much as I did in History. I turned and the person who spoke was Opal Watson. She said that she would call on me at the girl's home just as I was home. Of course this was all planned by Treva and Opal and I did not know it. The nurse was Alta Mae Moody. We talked over old times, all about our class meetings, our banquet and everything.

I left the hospital feeling quite well toward the old world. As we were walking down the street we heard a woman saying something very loud. There were a lot of people standing around so we pushed our way through the crowd to the front. When we got there Margaret Miller was singing. Reo Kirkbride was singing to draw a crowd. There was a red-haired man standing nearby watching very attentively. We asked Reo if she knew who he was and she said, "Sure, he is my husband. Don't you remember him. It's Verney Wallar." That was one of the greatest surprises I had. I thought surely he would be never coming home town. I then left for Buffalo. I didn't have anything to do in the evening so I went to an opera. When the lady was singing I thought it was Anna Blade, and the accompanist was Lucille Stevens. After the performance I wanted to make sure that I was right, so I went back-stage. I met a man and asked if I might speak with the singer. He called her and it sure enough was Anna. The man whom I had asked was George Banks. I went to talk with him and Lucille came out.

I left Buffalo on the afternoon train for here. I got here about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. I just couldn't keep this news any longer, I knew you would want to hear all about it.

I hope that this finds you and Bessie well and happy and you enjoy your work with Mr. Jessen. Write soon and tell me all about the old home town and C. H. S. I have to go to school tomorrow then my work begins. Are Mr. Perkins and Mr. Matthews still there? I suppose they are either taking names or collecting typewriting dues.

I must close and do my work.

Your friend,

Julia Hughes.

Class Will of '27

We, the Senior class of 1927, of Caney High School, Montgomery County, State of Kansas, in full possession of sound mind and memory, do make this our last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills made by us, at any time here-to-fore:

First, Item I, to the Juniors we bequeath our dignity and importance in C. H. S., providing they will lead the other classes onward and upward, as we have done this year.

Item II, to the Sophomores we leave our best wishes, and we hope that their desire to be a Junior may be granted.

Item III, to the timid Freshmen, we feel advice is all that is needed, so we only say to mind your teachers and watch your step, because a Misconduct List is published twice a week, and you should know what that means. If not, ask some Sophomore or Junior.

Item IV, to the faculty we give and bequeath all our surplus knowledge and information we gained from them, to them to teach those below us, who really need it.

Item V, to Jack Jesson, the janitor and beloved friend, we leave our lockers, to be mended, and all the means of intelligence.

Item VI, to Mrs. Jarvis we leave all the books to be mended, and our thanks for letting us read magazines during school hours.

The individual talent will is as follows:

Lucille Allen leaves her sportsmanship to Helen McQuillen.

To Johnny Lewis, Christine Baker leaves her excellent secretarial ship.

Opal Baker presents to Merna Muir, her dates and car rides.

To Wayne Nellis, Harold Baker leaves his place in the Orchestra.

George Banks wills his place on the Annual Staff to anyone who wants to work.

Glenn Barrett leaves to Ed Dougherty his athletic ability.

Treva Barrington bequeaths her winning smile to Dorothy Townsell.

Anna Blade willingly gives her quiet manners to Larry King.

To Johnny Hilford, Zack Chamberlain wills his sheik stroll.

Charley Burns wills his interest in Sedan to Joe Barnes.

Everett Conklin confers one affectionate farewell upon his many girls.

Waneta Fields leaves her studious character to Evelyn Overfield.

Louis Fields leaves his live for shorthand to Cecil Soden.

George Glatfelder bestows his happy spirit and good nature upon Firmin Latinis providing he doesn't spoil it.

Bessie Hamilton leaves her coquettish ways to Opal Kirkbride.

Mary Henderson leaves her place in Normal Training Class to anyone who likes it like she did.

Inez Hendrickson leaves her skill in arguing to Kathrine Delap.

Julia Hughes bequeaths her reputation as a flirt to Treva Payne.

Verle Jones bestows his red curly hair to Leo Martain.

George Kerry willingly gives his taste for bookkeeping to Mr. Matthews.

Reo Kirkbride bestows on Mabel Sells her power of continuous talking.

We willingly give Mary Landin's habit of coming to classes late to Anna Leach.

Alta Mae Moody leaves her fiery disposition to Mae Lambiotte.

Bethel Moyer leaves her "grown up ways" to Donella Troxel.

Mary Jane Nolan sadly bequeaths her athletic ability to Dorothy Fleener.

Jack Pocock leaves his shiekling ability to Harold Winkler.

Marion Prall leaves "Toad" to anyone else who will have him. I wonder who.

Colleen Rardon leaves her foot prints on the lawn.

To Gaines Baker we will Vaughn Sircoulomb's speed on the typewriter.

Ruth Smith gives her habit of using big words to Coleen Goodbar.

Ellis Stallard leaves his collegiate styles to Paul Brown.

Lucile Stevers leaves her All Star sweater to Dorothy Roberts if she will promise to never wear it out of town.

Cleo Truskett leaves Jess Havener to — Swenson as instructor's assistant.

Homer leaves his place in Boys' Glee to Bill Wilson.

Leon Wetmore leaves his laugh to anyone who will enjoy it.

Celia West leaves her studious character to Pauline Vanetta.

Opal Watson leaves her place as entertainer for bookkeeping class to Marie Huffman.

Verney Wallar leaves his wild ways to Clyde Fuqua.

Junior Class History

On August the 29, 1924, the Junior class of '27 "with their hearts in their throats" enrolled for their first year in Dear Old Caney High. There were eighty hopeful, bright-eyed youngsters, strangers to the halls of C. H. S. On September the first these Freshmen commenced actual work.

They came for an education and they received an EDUCATION. But interwoven in the work were many social "good times." During the first year the All School Party was the important occasion while a Hay rack Ride to the Moyer Hill was also a time of frolic. By this time some had found the going too difficult and had dropped out but there were others to fill their places.

At the beginning of the second year of the school life pride began to take the place of timidity, pride for the school that was preparing them for life's great "examinations." The class was represented in: Debate, Playmakers, Operetta, Athletics, Chapels, Music Department, and other important activities. The High School yell leader was chosen from the Sophomore class. The students realized, after the close of two years of school life, what an education meant to them and saw the best way to reach their goal was to complete the four year course.

Of the original eighty, thirty-eight enrolled for their third year. The officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President	Frank Freidline
Vice President	Dorothy Roberts
Secretary	Lucile Stevens
Treasurer	John Lewis

The sponsors for the class were Mr. Swenson, Mrs. Sawyer, and Miss Daniels.

The Junior Class was very successful with this able body of officers and sponsors.

During the third year many social activities were enjoyed. The Junior-Senior Party was important, but by far the greatest event in the social life of any Junior is the Junior-Senior Banquet which will be treasured in the memories of his school days.

Next year we will be Seniors and will go out into the world of life. The thorough education that we will have received we are sure can be depended upon in our future trials.

This officially closes the history of the Junior Class of '27 as is unknown now.

Synopsis of Log of Caney High S. S. Sophomore

Staying three months in dry-dock the S. S. Freshman underwent an extensive rejuvenation and was rechristened, "Sophomore." She set sail September 6, on her annual nine month's voyage under command of the following:

Richard Hale, Captain; Novella Johnson, First Mate; Virginia, Purser; Mrs. Thompson, Pilot; Mrs. Tayman and Miss Myers, Engineers. Installation of modern equipment caused the crew to be cut from 95 to 71.

The members of the Crew engaged in many activities during the voyage. They won the Nakenak contest, competing against the entire Caney High Fleet. Two of its members, Evelyn Truskett and Larry King, won places on the Nakenak Staff.

All members of the crew attended the social events, the most important of which were the all school party, and the ship's own Halloween masquerade party.

In athletics, the Sophomore was easily the outstanding ship of the fleet. F. Latris was Captain of the football team and six other members made letters. Ten members of the crew were on the basket ball squad of the fleet. In all other branches of sport they were equally as prominent.

The crew's debate team were winners of the inter-ship debate and R. Hale and E. Truskett won places on the all-fleet team.

In the music department, nine members were in the fleet's band and ten in the orchestra. Theyman Maze, Joe Barnes, Charles Brown, Novella Johnson, and many others were in the operetta, "Once in a Blue Moon."

Evelyn Truskett was yell leader of the fleet.

The "Sophomore" was represented at the G. R. Conference by Frances Liberman, Merna Muir, and Lillian Lewis.

The voyage was marked by unusually fair weather with the exception of severe typhoons in January and May, during the examination periods. Although the "Sophomore" was badly buffeted, she weathered the storms successfully with few casualties.

On May 20, the voyage of the "Sophomore" was ended and she was put in dry dock for her annual overhauling.

Freshnen Class History

As the storm of the battle cleared away, a glimpse of fifty-seven survivors could be distinguished traveling very slowly. This successful army was known as the "Freshmen."

Entering upon the highway they were endangered by outlaws called upper classmen, but under the skillful leadership of their sponsors, Miss White, Miss Berger and Mr. Mathews, they defeated their enemies.

At the beginning of the year they elected the following officers:

President	Doris Pendleton
Vice President	Coleen Goodbar
Secretary-Treasurer	Fletcher Hilton

They were delightfully entertained at the all-school party which enlightened our friendship toward the upper classmen.

The Freshmen class presented two chapels, one a Thanksgiving program and the other a play entitled "Scenes in the Union Depot."

The following Freshmen entered debate:

Ellen Harris	Maxine Howard
Wanda McCann	Paul Kelly
Ethel Powers	Frank Moorehead

The Freshmen fortunate enough to be selected for mixed chorus and glee were:

Yvonne Lambiotte	Orlena Bennett
Cora Jean Hepner	Dorris Pendleton
Earl Swank

During our continuous battle, they arranged a Christmas party which was enjoyed by every one.

The forces united with courage and now the army has departed into summer quarters in various homes in Camp Caney.

"Applesauce"

The play which was chosen for the Playmakers this year was "Applesauce" and was given Friday, March 18 in the High School Auditorium. The cast and their sponsor Mrs. Tayman deserve much praise for their untiring efforts.

Hazel Robinson is infatuated with Rollo Jenkins and Bill McAllister, and she is unable to decide which one she really loves. Rollo is very wealthy and Hazel's parents, Ma and Pa Robinson wish her to marry him. Bill McAllister is a carefree individual and depends upon his rich Uncle, Matt McAllister to support him. Rollo becomes engaged to Hazel and all is well until Rollo found out that Bill was still calling on Hazel. One night when they attended a church social Bill came and sat at their table. Thereafter, Hazel gave all her attention to Bill and did not notice Rollo. Rollo was very angry and deeply humiliated Hazel by making her go home alone. Hazel breaks off her engagement with Rollo and announces her intention of marrying Bill.

Matt McAllister disinherits Bill because he will not work and refuses to pay any more of his expenses. Bill had just six dollars but he and Hazel were married and made their home over a drug store. They had barely enough to get along and Ma and Pa Robinson tried to persuade Hazel to leave Bill and come home to live, but she flatly refuses. Jennie Baldwin, a friend and neighbor of the Robinson's tries to get Hazel to forsake Bill and go home.

After a year of living in poverty, Bill, by using his wits, gets a position as manager of Matt McAllister's coal yards and he goes to live in Matt's house.

THE CAST:

Rollo Jenkins	Ellis Stallard
Bill McAllister	John Lewis
Matt McAllister	Howard Barrett
Hazel Robinson	Cleo Truskett
Jennie Baldwin	Julia Hughes
Ma Robinson	Laudine Dobson
Pa Robinson	Zack Chamberlain

Debate

The question for 1927 was, "Resolved: That there should be a Federal Department of Education with a Secretary in the President's Cabinet."

Caney was represented by the following:

Negative	Affirmative
Evelyn Truskett	Ruth Smith
Laudine Dobson	Richard Hale
Cleo Truskett	Mary Lambdin
Viola Egan (substitute)	Alma Bennett (substitute)

The debaters got off to a flying start with a victory by the negative team over Independence affirmative at Caney. The judges returned a unanimous decision.

However, like flying starts in other activities, the remaining encounters were not so favorable, and in the three Caney went down to defeat. Excellent work was done by the two teams, and in spite of the rather inglorious showing, Caney High may well be proud of her debaters, and assuredly should show proper appreciation to Mrs. Tayman for her conscientious training of the teams.

First Caney negative vs Independence affirmative at Caney; Caney affirmative vs Coffeyville negative at Coffeyville.

Second: Caney negative vs Cherryvale affirmative at Cherryvale, Caney affirmative vs Coffeyville negative at Caney.

ADULTS

Football Bull Pups of 1927

When Coach Hill called for material for the football squad there assembled on the gridiron, a lot of nondescript material that made Hill shake his head dubiously. He managed to drag one letter man and two or three others, who had had experience, out of the medley and around these he built his team. The squad, after a few nights, diminished rapidly, until there was barely enough for one team. This team, though light, was a fighting one. They played the game from start to finish with never a let down even though beaten at every turn. Their opponents admitted that they were about the scrappiest team in the valley.

The team started the season under the name of "Bull-pups" and continued to play under this name until some member of the student body turned in the brilliant suggestion that the team bear the name of "Kane Kyotes." As the team did not like to bear such a cowardly name they soon reverted to the old one.

Captain Latinis, Quarterback, led the team this year and was a good general, although his team lost every game. The season was successful since it is not the team that has the largest score that wins but the team which has really played the game.

C. L. Hill who has coached at Caney for two years. Although his teams made a poor showing it was not his fault, for he had new and light material to work with and to pit against the heavier teams of the valley. He did his job creditably however and always put the old fight into the team at moments when their determination was waning. Hill was liked by all the boys who worked under him as he taught them the meaning of self sacrifice, team work and clean sportsmanship. He taught no "dirty" play and allowed none if he could prevent it. He can say that his teams played a clean game.

FIRMIN LATINIS Quarterback

Age 15 Weight 121

"Pluto", Caney's diminutive Quarterback-Captain, led his team through a good season. He was Caney's only letter man and was the mainstay of the team. Although small he was a tough little man, a player who used his head, a sure tackler and a good passer. He is a big man done up in a small package.

VAUGHN SIRCOULOMB Fullback

Age 18 Weight 147

"Wamp" played his first year at fullback which is a hard position to fill and went through the season in fine style. His weight and size made him a good man at backing up the line. His line plunging was hard to beat and he could be depended on for a substantial gain. He will be missed from next year's squad.

LEO MARTIN

Right Half

Age 15

Weight 126

"Chief," a new man, played right half and was good on either the offensive or defensive. He was always on the job and ready to do his part in running interference or carrying the ball. He was an aggressive player and will be needed on next year's squad to help carry on the good work.

HAROLD BAKER

Left Half

Age 19

Weight 138

"Bumo" played a fast and furious game at left half. He was always fighting from toss-up to final whistle and although greatly handicapped the latter part of the season with a dislocated knee he was always ready to go. This is Baker's last year and he will be missed badly from next year's squad.

CHAS. BROWN

Left End

Age 15

Weight 127

"Si" played his first year for Caney High. He was a good man, light but fast, and played the game from start to finish. His many catches of forward passes added many substantial gains to the list.

CLIFFORD STERLING

Right Guard

Age 15

Weight 166

Although Clifford did not get into the game at the first of the season, he made good at the last. He was a hard hitter and could be depended on to do his part in opening a hole.

CECIL SODEN

Right Tackle

Age 16

Weight 146

Soden, another of Caney's new men, played at right tackle and played well. He could be depended on to make the necessary hole. When in a tight place Soden was always there to punt the ball out of danger.

EVERETT CONKLIN

Right End

Age 19

Weight 125

Conklin, who had had experience on the team last year, made his end hard to pass as he spilled his interference without fail. Conklin will be missed from next year's squad as his place will be hard to fill.

MERLE KANNARD

Left Tackle

Age 19

Weight 147

A good man on both offense and defense. When a hole was needed Merle made it. He played the game from whistle to whistle. Merle received honorable mention for the All-Valley Team.

JESS HAVENER

Left Guard

Age 17

Weight 162

Jess played his first year at guard. He was always on the job and ready to do his part. He was a worthy opponent for the best in the valley.

GAINES BAKER

Center

Age 18

Weight 155

Gaines was one of the mainstays of the team, making few bad passes and many good ones. He could always be depended on to do his part and do it well. His work at backing up the line was very good and few plays went over him.

Basketball 1927

Once again Coach Hill called for material but this time for material to represent Caney in basketball. Again the material which assembled, this time in the "Gym" caused Hill to heave a sigh. Hill could find no letter man upon whom to base his team, so he built it as best he could and did a good job. This team also played a hard season, although it seemed that they were doomed. They made the different teams of the valley fight hard and really earn every point they made.

The basketball team was without a captain, so before each game an acting Captain was appointed or elected. Either Charles Brown or Jess Havener were usually called upon to perform this duty which they did very creditably. At the close of the basketball season a captain was elected and Charles Brown was the fortunate man.

The Music Department was greatly handicapped this year because of the fact they had only forty minute periods in which to work, but despite this handicap, the classes, under the able supervision of Miss Wilma Haggard, found time to present the Operetta, "Once in a Blue Moon," before the end of the first semester.

The second semester was devoted wholly to working up the contest numbers and the classes bent to the task with a will. Miss Haggard put in many long hours in drilling the quartets and glee clubs, and she deserves special mention for her unceasing labors.

The Music Department of Caney High is an asset to the community and should be boosted by every loyal citizen. The quartets and glee clubs have assisted in the music in many social and religious gatherings, and appreciate very much being called upon for their services.

After an absence of four years at college, Bob Harrington is expected to return to the home of his foster aunt, Mrs. Mary Montgomery, whose daughter Sylvia was his boyhood sweetheart. Having fallen in love with another girl at college, he sends his chum, George Taylor, who closely resembles him to substitute for him at the week end party. George had always been anxious to meet Sylvia whose picture greatly attracts him. He arrives amid preparations for a Spanish Fiesta and finds Sylvia more charming than her picture.

Unexpected guests, Sir Percival Chetwood and M. Rene Le Mon arrive and are welcomed as distinguished noblemen by Mrs. Montgomery and invited to remain for the festivities. That night while the guests are dancing a robbery takes place and suspicion is turned on George, who is forced to disclose his identity. Things look dark for him until the guilty parties are brought to justice. A telegram from the real "Bob" announcing his marriage leaves Geo. free to finish the story in the approved fashion.

CURTAIN

High School Orchestra

Director—MISS WILMA HAGGARD

The Orchestra of 1927 showed a great improvement over that of last year. New music, new instruments, and the untiring efforts of Miss Haggard were responsible for this improvement.

The Orchestra played for several outside entertainments and were always appreciated. During Music Week the orchestra was one of the drawing cards.

We hope the Orchestra of 1928 will show as great an improvement over that of 1927 as the 1927 Orchestra did over the 1926 Orchestra.

High School Band

This band was organized in "1925" as a Boy's Band. It was composed of some members of the Junior High and some from the High School.

In 1926 the band was re-organized as a High School band and made rapid progress, giving several entertainments.

When the band was organized in "1927" a few new pieces were added which improved the band wonderfully. New music, new instruments, and the untiring efforts of the director, J. R. Popkins, is responsible for the success which the "1927" band has achieved. This band gives many entertainments throughout the year and is always greeted with loud applause when they make their appearance.

Art Class '26-'27

This class was organized at the beginning of the year of 1925-26 under the direction of Miss Elaine Myers. This class made rapid progress and carried its work so well that, at the opening of the year of 1926-27, the class was reorganized as an advanced art class again under the direction of Miss Myers. The class carried the accomplishments of the preceding year still farther and are now doing very excellent work.

When, thru the co-operation of Miss Myers, they were called upon by the annual staff to furnish a few plates for department heads, they responded willingly and after a great deal of hard work, they turned in several plates which are equal to or better than any ever before used in the "Kane-Kan."

In order to express our thanks more definitely than in words we dedicate this page to them as a token of our appreciation.

Woman

Woman is a vain, foolish creature, worth very little to the world in the way of displaying ability. Every since the world has known man his brain, have controlled and run it, while the little dainty, shy woman sat back and enjoyed the things her mate devised.

In the beginning woman was made from one of man's ribs, created for the sole purpose to be man's companion. And what a companion she has been. Her failure is so pronounced that it has become a saying, a very common one, that "Women and wine are the root of all evils." Wine, as everybody knows, benumbs man's brain and thus renders him incapable of doing anything intelligently, naturally he does things which in his natural state of mind he would never think of doing. We can forgive wine for this, but when a woman uses her charms to the same effect, namely of getting man to do that which she wants him to do, it is not so easily forgiven. When a woman's charms were given to her they were supposed to make her a charming companion for man, but you can see, as I do, that while many of them follow the will of their creator there are many who do not.

The peculiar side of the question always comes to the front. Ask a man if he would have woman changed and he will answer, "In only one way. I would like to see all women beautiful," and you can argue till your hair turns gray and that is all you can get out of him.

Now you will admit that woman is supposed to be a creature of beauty with the traits that would make her a boon companion for man. And the first thing you know all this logic will be shattered by some fool who will stand up and shout, "Beauty is only skin deep." If this is true then why wasn't woman made either all beautiful or, well, vice-versa. I am sure that this problem could stand a lot of study, and if some of you fellows get really conscientious about this affair it would surely merit your most earnest prayers, and who knows, maybe the One who knows the whys and wherefores of all earthly affairs would put you straight.

Next, I suppose you will want to know in what manner the answer will be forwarded to you. Will you find it in some brilliant lecture or will you find it blasted on a rock. That, my friend, is far beyond my poor vision. Who can tell whether such a divine creature as our Lord would have such an important question answered through the medium of human voice or not. Most probably it would be in the form of a dream. Imagine, if you can, coming to you in your sleep a troupe of beautiful girls. One by one they would come to you and in each of them you would find either selfishness, dullness, lack of humor or some other default. Then just for comparison suppose a troupe of girls, not very much to look at, but girls who were a pleasure to talk to, who could always see the bright side of things and who could entertain wonderfully as long as you were not looking at them, would appear to you. These too would be lacking. Now, if a, well, you might call it a cross between the two; good looking, but not beautiful and having most of the qualities of the latter. Here would be the answer to your prayers, the perfect woman.

Adam's Apple

The try-out for the Senior Play was held March 28 and nine persons were chosen to represent the senior class of '27 as the cast in "Adam's Apple" which was given April 29.

The play is as follows:

Adam Van Alstyne, stock broker and man about town invested all his earnings in shares of Dallas Petroleum Co., the John Lennox, 1 Wall Street millionaire, is expected to gain control and boost the stocks. A number of proxies were stolen and Lennox disappeared. Adam's father-in-law, who Riggs, an notorious criminal, and his unknown pals, presumably burglars, effect their entrance into Adam's apartment. Riggs and his companion are forced to hide in a closet of the apartment. Adam and his wife Eve. While they are hidden they learn that Adam has invented a nation are Uncle John as a means of getting out of debt with his nephew Billy Aldrich, who is engaged to Cecily Tennant, Eve's sister.

Further complications result when the unknown burglar is discovered by Eve and is forced to represent himself as Adam's Uncle John. Casper, a detective, forces an entry into the apartment in search of Lennox, the missing million dollar stock was wanted by Robinson, another Wall Street millionaire and a rival of Lennox.

Final developments reveal the fact that the unknown burglar is in reality Jordan Lennox, the missing millionaire. Riggs, the second burglar proves to be the long lost Lennox has and of Maggie Lee Van Alstyne cook.

With rare presence of mind Eve saves Lennox from being kidnapped, and, after finding the missing proxies which were hidden by a former tenant, an operative of Robinson Lennox exposes Adam and Billy with fifty thousand dollars each, and offers Adam a position in one of his large corporations. With the treasure, prospect of Adam and Billy thus assured by the reward, and of Lennox by the recovery of the proxies, everyone is happy.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The annual Junior-Senior banquet was held April 22, at six thirty in the high school gymnasium. Invitations were issued to all Juniors and Seniors, to faculty and their husbands and wives, to the school board and their wives and to Mrs. Jarvis.

The eight tables were beautifully decorated in purple and white, and Senior colors and white flowers were on the tables in large bouquets. Large candles were on each table and these were kept lighted throughout the banquet. The guests found beautiful place cards assigning them to their places.

All invited guests assembled in the auditorium and were entertained by their hosts, the Juniors, with the following program:

- 1-8 Music Week, if only there was some talent in Caney.
- 12. Chapel, the last one.
- 18-19 Exams, I wonder if the Seniors all graduate.
- 20. The long looked for day arrives. Goodbye Caney High.

Some People's Idea of what Caney High is for

Bethel Moyer .	to study
Ester Blade .	to do solo dances
Leon Wetmore	to introduce new styles in the hat line
Ester Chastine	to skip class
Julia Hughes	to fall down stairs
Vaughn Sircoulomb .	to park the Ford
Mary Jane Nolan	to have grades cut for talking
Cora Jean Hepner	} to "spark"
Joe Murphy
Anna Leach
Leon Wetmore
Virginia Daniels
Firmin Latinis
Homer Woods	... to get on the honor roll
Harold Baker	to fall in love

LAUGHS FROM LIFE

Matthews—"A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer."
 Derryl Pendleton—"No wonder so many of us flunk in exams."

THE NEW STUDENT

Lucille Stevens—"Why didn't you find out where he was when Prof called the roll?"
 Ruth McGrew—"I did my best but he answered to four names."
 Joe Barnes—"Which is correct—camels come in herds or camels come in droves?"
 Firmin Latinis—"Neither—Camels come in packs."
 Miss Tompson—"What is oratory?"
 Bill Wilson—"The art of saying the obvious so nobody can understand what you are obviously trying to make obvious."
 Virginia Daniels—"Why is that farmer raising that steam roller thing over the fence?"
 Mary Jane Nolan—"He's raising mashed potatoes this year."
 Marion Prall—"Will your folks be surprised when you graduate?"
 Harold Baker—"No, they've been expecting it for several years."
 Homer Woods—"When did you first get acquainted with your new friend?"
 Ellis Stallard—"The first day I tried to borrow some money."
 George Banks—"Did you ever ride a mule?"
 Chas. Burns—"No, why?"
 George Banks—"Well, get onto yourself then."
 John Lewis—"Darling you're the breath of my life."
 Ester Chastine—"Well, why don't you hold your breath?"
 Geo. Glatfelder—"Do you know Poe's 'Raven'?"
 Verle Jones—"What's he mad about now?"
 Erma Stoy—"Have you a thumb tack?"
 Don Divens—"No, but I have a finger nail."
 Celia West—"Have you read, 'A thousand and one Nights?'"
 Anna Leach—"No, mother won't let me read Elinor Glyn."
 Joe Barnes—"I never wear an overcoat or a hat when it snows."
 Cora Jean—"Collegiate?"
 Joe—"No, I never go out when it snows."

Laughs from Life

IN ECONOMICS—

Swenson—"What are the overcharges of a factory?"

Julia Hughes—"Putting on a roof."

Carl Seaton—"Why was I standing in the doorway telling Evelyn good night didn't it ever dawn on you?"

Gaines Baker—"Heavens no, I never stay that late."

Zack Chambers—"I wonder why all the Seaton girls smile at me?"

Laudine Dobson—"Maybe they're too polite to laugh out loud."

Geo. Kirby—"What did you get for Christmas?"

Homer Woods—"Well, you know the new long racy Cadillacs?"

Geo.—"Yes."

Homer—"Well, I got a pair of roller skates."

I WONDER

Why a cheer leader wears white clothes?

What business will the hore fly go into when the last horse dies?

How we can have our feet of a pretty fell?

What kind of a chapter the chapter of today will make for tomorrow?

How are you going to pick a man when the world requires an education?

If the man who wrote "Music hath Charms" lived with a roommate who owned and operated a uke?

"Mary had a bathing suit

'Twas pretty without a doubt,

But when she climbed inside the thing

The most of her stayed out."

IN 1937

"I want a Ford car."

"Just put a nickle in the slot."

Mary Lambdin—"What do you think of my new shoes?"

Edgar A. Quaker—"They're marvelous."

Y. Lambdin—"Why are you so afraid your thriver 'Flippin'?"

Virginia Strickland—"Straight and heavy, swell paint job, park pick up, lots of speed, keeps me broke, warms up quickly, and is always ready to go."

Evelyn Trussett (At Lasko's) "What was Games put out of the game for?"

Coach Hill—"For holding."

Evelyn—"Oh, isn't that just like him."

Agent—"I represent a society for the prevention of profanity. I want to take profanity out of your family."

Jack Pocock—"Hey Mother! Here's a man who wants to buy our car."

Colleen Goodbar—"What disguise shall I wear for the fancy dress ball? Can't you give me an idea?"

Ned McGrath—"Why not go dressed as a girl?"

She was a shy looking little thing, but wiser than she appeared. She was trying to encourage him.

"Verney, C. C. said, "What can you spell out of the word enough that is not enough?"

"D. I. K. E. W. F. N. O. U. G. H."

Verney, "Oh! I dun no."

"My, you are slow! O-N-E H-U-G."

"Spoon, Miss" asked the handsome waiter.

"Don't be so smart," snapped Bethel Moyer, "or I will call the Manager."

The teacher was instructing her class in wild animal life.

"Did any of you ever see an elephant skin?" asked Mrs. Sawyer.

"Yes, Ma'm," answered Firmin L.

"Where was it, Firmin?"

"On a nelfunt in a prade."

Mr. Haymaker—"Does the moon affect the tide?"

Alta Mae Moody—"No sir, only the untied."

THE CANEY CHRONICLE

CANEY, KANSAS

Men

Men are what women marry. They have two hands, two feet & sometimes two wives, but never more than one brilliant idea at a time.

Like cagarettes, men are all the same material, however, some are disguised better than others.

Men may be divided into 3 classes: husbands, bachelors & widowers. A bachelor is a mass of obstinacy surrounded by suspicion. Husbands are of 3 kind: prizes, surprises and consolation prizes.

To make a husband out of a man, requires science, sculpture, common sense, faith, hope, & charity.

It is a marvelous thing that a soft, flaffy-haired, perfume-scented woman should enjoy a big awkward, tobacco and bay-ram scented thing like a man.

If you flatter a man, you frighten him to death & if you don't you bore him. If you believe him in everything he soon tires of you & if you are cynical he gets disgusted.

If you wear gay colors, rouge, & gay faddy hats, it embarasses him to take you out & if you dress plainly he stares all evening at a woman in gay colors, rouge, and faddy hats.

If you are silly he longs for someone with brains & if you are intellectual, you are a bore.

O, if you are popular he is jealous, and if you aren't he hesitates to associate with you. Just how can you please these men!

ATTENTION!: Are they worth the worry they seem to require?

Miss Hansen—"What would we do if the temperature of the body reaches 107 degrees?"

Dorothy Roberts—"Call the undertaker."

Raymond DeHon—"Great Scott! Who wrote 'Ivanhoe'?"

Earl Swank—"I'd like to know who in the dickens wrote 'Christmas Carol'?"

Firmin Latinis—"They tell me that was a wealthy dame you were chasing in Sedan."

Glenn Barrett—"Yes her father made a fortune in some kind of a mine."

Firmin—"Copper?"

Glenn—"No, some other guy beat me out."

Everett Conklin—"I've a great mind to rock this boat and frighten you."

Thelma Foltz—"A young man once tried it before and the boat upset."

Everett Conklin—"What did you do?"

Thelma Foltz—"I swam ashore and notified the Coroner."

John H. Hoot—"I can get anything on my radio that you can on your phonograph, more too."

Glenn Smith—"Is that so? Let's see you tune in on Caruso."

Richard Hale—"My brother takes up Italian, French, German, Spanish and Chinese."

Mrs. Tayman—"How nice, what school does he attend?"

Dick—"No school; he's an elevator boy."

Mr. Matthews (addressing Charley Burna)—"I want you to understand—"

May Lambiotte—"He's fast asleep."

Matthews—"Well, that's the only thing he is fast at."

Dr. Lambdin (rushing into room)—"Get my bag at once."

Mrs. Lambdin—"Why, what's the matter?"

Dr.—"Some fellow has just telephoned that he couldn't live without me."

Mrs. Lambdin—"Just a moment, I think that was a call for our daughter, Mary."

Cecil Soden—"I can read you like a book."

Ester Blade—"Don't you usually take a book on your knees when you read it?"

Ellis Stallard—"Hear you have tried out for the Senior Play."

Leon Wetmore—"Yes."

Ellis Stallard—"Had any experience in that line?"

Leon Wetmore—"Sure, I had my leg in a cast once."

Jess Havener—"Don't you dare touch my clothes, if you do you'll get shocked."

Cleo Truskett—"Why?"

Jess H.—"Cause they are charged."

General Speaking—Mary Jane Nolan is

Oh, yes, she is

Is what?

Well, general speaking.

TRUE IN THIS CASE

(Overheard at the Studio)

May Lambiotte—"Say, I don't want such a large portrait."

Photographer—"All right, just keep your mouth shut."

Miss White—"What is the contribution of the middle ages to modern high school days?"

Howard Bennett—"Chaperones."

Zack Chamberlain—"What time does the next train leave?" I've been waiting five hours for it."

Station Agent—"In five minutes. Want a ticket?"

Zack Chamberlain—"No, I want to race the blame thing to the crossing."

Julia Hughes—"What are you going to take next semester?"

Harold Baker—"Chances."

Mr. Haymaker—"What happened to Joan of Arc after the French deserted her?"

"Wamp" Sircoulomb—"She lost her supporters."

Safety bicycles were in vogue when the Osgood Company opened its doors

... when safety bicycles and horse-cars held sway in Chicago—the Osgood Company was a going concern. Their clients' interests, then—as now—were their interests.

... when the World's Fair grounds was a vista of naked spars, the Osgood Company was striving to give their best to those who sought their advice and friendly co-operation.

... everything—the bare idea, the drawing and even to the completed plates and electros are carefully prepared by the Osgood Company with the same diligence as though they were their own.

... colleges and Schools should keep the above thoughts in mind when preparing your next book and employ only the Engraver that will give you the co-operation and quality of workmanship that you will be proud of—

Osgood Company make engravings most suitable for College and School Annuals.

Miss Blank—"Why didn't you sound your horn when you saw the man in the road?"
Zack C.—"I thought it would be more humane if he never knew what hit him."

Haymaker—"What great law did Newton discover?"
Charley B.—"The bigger they are, the harder they fall."

Leon W.—"Will you tell me what that long, red hair on your coat means?"
Marion P.—"That can mean only one thing—trouble."

Anna L.—"No, Leon I'm afraid I can't marry you."
Leon W.—"Oh, Anna just this once."

Mrs. Jarvis says George Banks is so dumb that he thinks Eleanor Glyn wrote "One Minute to Play?"

Guide (During tour of Ford Factory)—"Do you know what would happen if that man over there on the right side ever missed a day at work?"

Marion P.—"No, what?"

Guide—"Twenty-two hundred and sixty-one Fords would go out of the factory without springs."

Marion—"Say, mister, he's certainly been sick a lot, hasn't he?"

"Though you belong to somebody else, tonight you belong to me," murmured Ellis Stallard, smoothing the wrinkles out of the Tux.

Matthews—"Say, that fellow over there looks just like your brother."
Swenson—"Sure, he is my sister."

Judge—"What makes you think this auto salesman is crazy?"

Popkins—"He spent forty-five minutes trying to sell me a car, and never once said that it was the best one on the market."

"Why does Marion wear her hair so long?"

"So that she can create the impression that her brain is fertile."

Mrs. Thompson—"Johnny, what do you think of 'The Comedy of Errors'?"

Johnny—"Why, I think it's the funniest thing I ever saw."

Mrs. Thompson—"Johnny, a pun is a play with words isn't it?"

Johnny—"Why, Mrs. Thompson, a pun is a play with words isn't it?"

It seems that a young freshman who had reached the stage at which his voice was changing was in the Arcade one day. In a deep bass voice he demanded, "A tablet, Mr. Marshall." Then his voice suddenly changing to a high pitch, he added, "And a block of candy."

Mr. Marshall—"Just a moment please, I can't wait on both of you at once."

Mrs. S. says the only way to keep a man from getting fat is to keep him from getting fat.

Julia H.—"Why-er-oh-that's it, sausage."

Interruption from rear of room—"Giddyup, Napoleon, it looks like reign."

Haymaker—"Vaughn, give two historically important dates."

Vaughn S.—"Anthony and Cleopatra; Napoleon and Josephine."

Bill F.—"Doctor, give me some pills."

Doc.—"What for?"

Bill—"To take."

Cecil S. (to partner at dance)—"I gotta sedan outside."

Ester C. (Sweetly)—"Ask him in."

Guy D.—"I say, sir, could you give me a job?"

Barber—"Sure, here paint that barber pole."

Guy—"O. K. boss. Where do I get the striped paint?"

Glenn B.—"I found fifty cents today."

Johnny L.—"Must be mine; I lost a half a dollar this afternoon."

Glenn—"Golly, 'at's too bad, but what I found was two quarters."

Johnny—"Must be my half. It probably broke when it hit the floor."

Caney High School

C is for classes to which we go each day and study hard, if you don't care what you say.
A is for assemblies which help pass the time to enjoy the programs that usually are fine.
N is for the faithful Nakenak Staff who once in two weeks can create a laugh.
E is for exams, what could be worse?
 When grade cards are presented where is the nurse?
Y is for the yell leader who has created fame and kept up our spirits at every game.

H is for the halls that we love so well,
 why don't we show our love? Wouldn't do to tell.
I is for the initiation which we must pass through to find sadness, gladness, and in life success too.
G is for Gym, to which we pass each day,

H is for Study Hall where we used to roam
 but now with sad hearts we read "For boss alone."
S is for students so good and so bad but a jolier group couldn't be had
C is for crotches our pride and our joy
 To develop the talent of each girl and boy
H is for Heno Day and April Fool ,
 the hopeless bunch that appeared at school.
O is for opening the first day of school and for teaching the freshie the golden rule.
O is for Operetta "Once in a Blue Moon," and all the hard work, forgotten so soon.
L is for leaving, lectures, lessons and love
 That means raising our future many steps above.
